CONGRESS TO PROBE AUTUMN FESTIVAL DEATH OF SUTTON WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Will Introduce Resolution.

Following the exhumation of the remains of Lieut. James N. Sutton, United States Marine Corps, and the autopsy or them, it is learned that the attention of Congress will be called to the now famous case next winter.
Sutton was killed almost two years ago, and until his mother forced the re-cent investigation, was set down as a

It now develops that at the opening of the Congress session in December Representative Good of Iowa will introa resolution calling on the Naval Affairs Committee to investigate and report on the whole case, the circumstances of Sutton's death, the conditions at Annapolis at the time it took place, and the conduct of the courtmartial which recently examined into the affair, and found no reason to change the former verdict of death by

Mr. Good became greatly interested in the case during the court-martial inquiry, and convinced himself that young guiry, and convinced himself that young Sutton did not take his own life. He became convinced, also, long before the court-martial had completed its work, that its verdict would sustain the sulcide theory, and determined if it did so he would undertake to obtain a Congressional inquiry. When the decision of the court-martial proved to be just what he had expected, Mr. Good declared his purpose, unless somebody else should take the action ahead of him, to introduce a resolution for investigation by some proper committee of Congress.

Mrs. Sutton has indicated her determination to have the death of her son further investigated before the civil cours of Maryland, if possible; and with this in prospect, together with the strong probability that the House will pass the Good resolution and order a committee probe, there is every indication 'he case will continue to demand public attention. Representative Good made come inquiry before Congress adjourned and convinced himself that such a resolution as he proposed would pass without serious opposition.

Mrs. Sutton said today, had signified their interest, either directly or indirectly, in a further probe of the Annapolis tragedy. In event a Congressional inrestigation, rather than the civil courts, should be decided upon as presenting the best opportunities for the clearing of Lieutenant Sutton's name, it is understood the first thing urged by those representing the Sutton cause will be that the officers implicated in the midnight confidence.

Representatives W. H. Mann and C. C. Carlin will, this evening, deliver addresses at Lee Camp Hall. The occassion will be the conferring of the Crossion will be the conferring of the Crossion will be the conferring of the Crossion will be the confederacy.

In the upper body, so the mother said today, she can count upon the active today, she can count upon the active support of Senator Bourne, who obtained the naval rehearing, and of Senator-elect Chamberlain, both of Oregon.

"I had heard Representative Good had become convinced a Congressional investigation should be had," said Mrs. Sutton this afternoon. "Personally, Representative Good is unknown to me, and I have not sought any favors at his hands. His decision is reached, as I understand it, from reading the evidence at the naval hearing.

Senator Makes Offer.

"I have had assurances, however, from several members of the House that they would support a movement to investi-gate the causes of my son's death, despite the fact that the Navy Department says he committed sulcide. A Senator, not from my own State, offered to handle the case for me originally.

"My prayers of twenty-three months ere answered when my son's body was exhumed Monday and I gazed upon his body. I had always prayed that his features might be in such state of preservation that I might see exactly the bruises upon his face and for It is nothing short of miraculous that the large, red bruise over his forehead appeared as natural as though it were appeared as natural as though it were upon the face of the living.

"I have not yet received the full autopsy report from my surgeon, Dr. Vaughan. Regardless of what it may be, however, I may say that our plans for a continuation of the fight were made as soon as the inquiry at Annapolis closed. Mr. Davis, of my counsel, will be in position to make them public within a short time. You may rest assured that no matter what the means, I cannot rest content until I see those I believe responsible for my son's death punished. Not until these men are forced out of the service and otherwise punished in some manner will my son's name be absolutely vindicated. I am still gathering evidence. The end is not yet."

Vaughan Prepares Report.

Dr. Vaughan, one of the three sur geons who performed the autopsy upon Lieutenant Sutton's disinterred body at Arlington, Cemetery, may have formal report ready during the day. will set forth the facts published in The Times yesterday, as announced by Dr. Vaughan verbally, that the autopsy revealed a large bruise over the right eye, another bruise under the left law a clean-cut bullet wound in the skull, and no evidence of powder stains,

No bones were found broken in the arms. The mother will carefully guard as future evidence the autopsy report as to the clean-cut bullet wound and the absence of powder marks, this indicating, to her mind, that it was impossible for the gun inflicting it to have been held in the dead man's own hand and at a range of not exceeding three inches.

Superintendent Wood says that in the expense for the present fiscal year he has saved the District $41,776.71, of which he counts $20,350 as "saved in time conumed in picking up waste paper.'

A drastic method of preventing per-ons from making a dumping ground of their own or their neighbors' premises should be provided, says the superintendent, in recommending an amendnent to the police regulations requiring that receptacle for ashes and all miscelareous refuse be used at all premises.
"At present such a regulation is man-
